June 12, 2018
E'Lise Chard
Petition for Temporary Order of Protection

I am requesting a Temporary Order of Protection against Elvis Nuno. On Thursday, June 7,2018, Elvis plead to two privacy in communication violations stemming from his repeatedly contacting and harassing me, despite Officer Ethan Smith contacting him and telling Elvis he was required to leave me alone. Among other parts of the deferred sentence, Elvis was ordered not to contact me in any way, including third party, for 2 years. Within an hour of his sentencing Thursday, Elvis contacted my employer, YWCA Missoula, pressing for me to be fired or in some way punished. He claimed I was providing false testimony, fabricating evidence, illegally targeting him and that he had been cleared of all charges. None of this is true, but it is very representative of Elvis' deep, ongoing delusion that I'm responsible for all that is going wrong in his life.

I have known Elvis Nuno approximately 3 years. I did not know him prior to his relationship with my twin sister, Danielle Chard. Following the end of Danielle and Elvis' relationship in Seattle, he stalked and harassed her, and continuously called, emailed and texted me. His pattern was multiple calls per day, often from blocked numbers in an effort to get me to unknowingly talk to him. When Elvis texted, it would be long, rambling messages, often 2 dozen or more in a day. His attempted contact with me is always to get me to put him in touch with Danielle, blaming me for the destruction of their relationship, and claiming his legal situation is directly my fault. A couple of years ago, he plead guilty to a couple of domestic violence charges in Seattle, and Danielle filed for and received a 5-year order of protection. He has violated this order repeatedly, with her directly, and through third party contact with me. When I quit responding to all of his communication attempts nearly 2.5 years ago, Elvis began continuously messaging others who knew me; friends, partners, etc., all in an effort to get them to pressure me to comply with his commands regarding Danielle.

Throughout the past several years, Elvis has threatened to try to get my children removed from my care, verbally stated that "when Danielle and I get back together, she'll never see you again" and that I am the "most disgusting person on the face of the earth". Roughly more than a year ago, Elvis left Seattle without completing his sentencing and came back to Missoula. He and I both grew up here, so our families are here and we both reside here now. Since Elvis has moved back to Missoula, I have become increasingly concerned about his behavior and proximity. He continued to text and email until October of 2017, despite Officer Ethan Smith telling him in July of 2017 that he was required to stop. Elvis' messages make it clear he still believes his alternate reality where everyone else is wrong and he is innocent. His insistence that I am the source of his problems, that I am standing between him and my sister, and his continued belief that he has never done anything wrong, alarms me and makes me fear his actions. Elvis is known by many police officers and courts to have abused drugs both in Washington and here in Missoula. This instability added to his delusional behavior makes me worry about the safety of myself, my children, and my co-workers should he come to my office or my home. Elvis knows that I am a single parent, that I live alone, and that my children are often with me.

I am seeking a temporary order or protection now because of Elvis' continuing delusion that I am the sole source of the problems in his life, his continuing refusal to take responsibility for his actions, and his blatant disregard for the court order stating he must leave me alone. His attempt to interfere with my employment and damage my professional reputation is a new level of aggression. As a result of that violated court order, the Missoula City Prosecutor is seeking a warrant for his arrest. If Elvis is arrested, I genuinely fear for my safety when he's released because I believe his state of mind is deteriorating and his behavior will escalate. I have taken steps to protect myself, including safety planning, alerting my co-workers to the situation and attempting to vary my routines as much as possible.

I really just want Elvis Nuno to leave me alone and move on with his life. I sincerely believe Elvis will disregard an order of protection, but I would feel safer knowing that the police had it on file and were more readily aware of the situation.