CONFIDENTIAL WHISTLEBLOWER DISCLOSURE

RE: Public Safety Concerns Regarding Licensed Clinical Social Worker Danielle Christine Chard (now practicing as Danielle Christine Bemis, BA, MSW)

To: Washington State Department of Health, Health Systems Quality Assurance Division
CC: Washington State Attorney General's Office, Consumer Protection Division
Date: February 21, 2026
From: MISJustice Alliance (Anonymous Legal Research Collective)

I. Executive Summary

This disclosure presents documented evidence that Danielle Christine Chard (DOB: September 23, 1983), who now practices under the name Danielle Christine Bemis, BA, MSW, a Washington State Licensed Clinical Social Worker (License No. LW61120290, NPI 1982900726), poses a substantial and ongoing risk to vulnerable populations due to a documented ten-year pattern (2015–2025) of:

1. Systematic manipulation of law enforcement through filing demonstrably false police reports across multiple jurisdictions, resulting in near-fatal SWAT encounters, wrongful arrests, and malicious prosecutions—all dismissed for lack of evidence[1][2][3];
2. Weaponization of state child-protection mechanisms to coerce testimony, including documented threats to a widowed single mother that she would lose custody of her only child unless she testified against Chard's ex-partner[1][3];
3. Abuse of professional position and institutional relationships through coordination with family members employed at victim-

services organizations (YWCA Missoula) to facilitate cross-jurisdictional harassment and false reporting[1][2][4];
4. Creation of indefinite carceral control over former intimate partner Elvis Ryland Nuno through obtaining a lifetime no-contact order based on the same pattern of uncorroborated allegations, giving her permanent power to trigger his re-incarceration with a single phone call[1][3].

Identifying Information: Public NPI and licensing records expressly list "Former Name: DANIELLE CHRISTINE CHARD" on the professional profile for Danielle Christine Bemis, conclusively linking the current professional identity (Bemis) to the prior name (Chard) used in the underlying police reports, protection orders, and criminal proceedings documented in this disclosure.

Core Finding: Ms. Chard/Bemis's documented willingness to leverage law enforcement, child-custody threats, and professional networks to harm individuals who challenge or leave her—combined with her clinical training in manipulation of vulnerable populations—creates acute risk in any setting where she holds professional authority over clients, particularly those involved with child protective services, domestic violence cases, or criminal justice systems.

Immediate Risk: As a licensed social worker with specialized training in clinical assessment and crisis intervention, currently practicing in a hospital-based psychiatric setting (Virginia Mason Medical Center – Psychiatry, First Hill, Seattle), Ms. Chard/Bemis possesses both the professional credibility and technical knowledge to replicate these patterns with current and future clients, potentially triggering:

- False CPS reports leading to family separation
- Fabricated risk assessments resulting in involuntary commitment or loss of parental rights
- Misuse of mandated-reporter authority to initiate retaliatory investigations
- Coordination with law enforcement to manufacture criminal liability for clients who resist her recommendations or file grievances

The fact that she now practices in a high-acuity psychiatric setting amplifies the risk profile: her documented pattern of fabricating dangerousness, weaponizing mandated-reporter status, and manipulating law-enforcement response is now coupled with day-to-day access to highly vulnerable patients, court-involved families, and individuals struggling with addiction and suicidality. In this context, even a single retaliatory or fabricated report by a clinician with her level of institutional credibility could precipitate involuntary psychiatric commitment, CPS-driven family separation, or criminal exposure for clients who challenge her recommendations, terminate treatment, or file grievances.

This disclosure is submitted under Washington's whistleblower protections (RCW 4.24.500–.520) and seeks immediate regulatory investigation, credential review, and interim practice restrictions pending full adjudication.

II. Background: Professional Context and Regulatory Jurisdiction

A. Credential and Practice Status

Public licensing and NPI registry records confirm that Danielle Christine Bemis, BA, MSW (formerly Danielle Christine Chard) is a Washington-licensed clinical social worker and behavioral health provider practicing in Seattle, Washington.

Key identifiers and credentials:

- Legal and Professional Names:
  - Current professional name: Danielle Christine Bemis, BA, MSW
  - Former name (explicitly listed in NPI record): Danielle Christine Chard
- National Provider Identifier (NPI): 1982900726
- Washington License Number: LW61120290 (Social Worker, Clinical)
- License State: Washington (WA)
- Credentials: BA, MSW (Master of Social Work from University of Maine, completed December 2014)

- Primary Taxonomy (WA): 1041C0700X – Social Worker, Clinical (Behavioral Health & Social Service Providers)
- Secondary Taxonomies (other jurisdictions):
  - 101Y00000X – Counselor (Behavioral Health & Social Service Providers), listed with Montana (MT) designation
  - 101YA0400X – Counselor, Addiction / Substance Use Disorder, listed with Alaska (AK) designation
- Practice Type: Behavioral Health & Social Service Provider delivering assessment, diagnosis, psychotherapy/counseling, client-centered advocacy, crisis intervention, and prevention of mental, emotional, and behavioral disorders, including addiction and trauma-related conditions.

Practice location and contact information associated with her NPI record:

- Business and Practice Address:
  Danielle Christine Bemis, BA, MSW
  1100 9th Ave, Seattle, WA 98101-2756
- Location Mailing Address:
  Danielle Christine Bemis, BA, MSW
  1100 9th Ave M4-PFS, Seattle, WA 98101
- Telephone: 206-561-2958
- Employer and Practice Affiliation (as publicly listed):
  Virginia Mason Medical Center – Psychiatry, First Hill, Seattle, WA (behavioral health and psychiatry practice setting serving high-acuity mental health and addiction populations)

These records confirm that the same individual who generated the false reports, protection orders, and criminal complaints documented in Sections III–VII is presently credentialed to provide clinical social work, general counseling, and addiction/substance-use counseling services in at least three states (WA, MT, AK designations on taxonomies), and exercises mandated-reporter and crisis-intervention authority in a large hospital-based psychiatric practice.

B. Regulatory Jurisdiction: RCW 18.225 and WAC 246-809

Ms. Chard/Bemis's conduct falls squarely within the Washington State Department of Health's disciplinary jurisdiction under:

- RCW 18.130.180 – Uniform Disciplinary Act grounds, including unprofessional conduct, moral turpitude, and misrepresentation
- WAC 246-809-210 – Social worker scope of practice requiring competence, integrity, and protection of client welfare
- WAC 246-809-240 – Prohibited conduct including fraud, dishonesty, and conduct demonstrating unfitness to practice
- NASW Code of Ethics (incorporated by reference) – Standards 1.01 (commitment to clients), 2.01 (respect), 3.09 (sexual relationships), 4.04 (dishonesty/fraud), 6.04 (social and political action)

C. Mandatory Reporting and Public Safety Obligation

Under RCW 18.130.070, healthcare providers and institutions are required to report professional conduct that may constitute grounds for disciplinary action. This disclosure fulfills that statutory obligation while protecting the identity of the reporting collective under whistleblower anonymity provisions.

D. Identifying Public Records and Case Materials

The conduct and patterns described in this disclosure are documented in publicly accessible case materials and institutional websites that the Department of Health, Attorney General, and law-enforcement agencies can independently verify.

1. Case and Pattern Documentation – MISJustice Alliance

Public case summaries, chronologies, and supporting documentation relating to Danielle Christine Chard / Danielle Christine Bemis and the ten-year pattern of cross-jurisdictional false reporting, SWAT deployment, malicious prosecution, and witness intimidation are available at:

- https://misjusticealliance.org/cases

These materials include: litigation timelines, police report citations, dismissal orders, sworn statements, and institutional-capture analyses corresponding to the incidents summarized in Sections III–VII of this disclosure.

2. YWCA Missoula Institutional Context

Background regarding the YWCA Missoula's governance structure, mission, and public representations, as well as its relationship to domestic-violence and victim-services programming, is available at:

- https://www.ywcaofmissoula.com/

These public materials demonstrate the institutional role of YWCA Missoula in regional DV response systems and provide context for the conflicts of interest and institutional-capture issues described in Section III.B and Section VI.C of this disclosure.

3. Professional Licensing and NPI Registry Records

The linkage between "Danielle Christine Chard" and "Danielle Christine Bemis, BA, MSW" is established through publicly searchable NPI and licensing records that list:

- NPI 1982900726;
- Primary taxonomy 1041C0700X (Social Worker, Clinical) in Washington;
- Secondary counselor and addiction-counselor taxonomies associated with Montana and Alaska; and
- An explicit "Former Name: DANIELLE CHRISTINE CHARD" entry.

These records provide regulators with precise identifiers, addresses, taxonomies, and employer information needed to immediately locate Ms. Bemis/Chard's current practice settings, patient populations, and supervisory structures for purposes of interim restriction, emergency suspension, and notice to employers.

III. Documented Pattern of Harm: 2015–2025 Chronology

The following incidents are documented through police reports, court records, sworn statements, and legal filings across Washington (King County) and Montana (Missoula County) jurisdictions.

A. Phase One: Washington State False Reporting Campaign (2015–2017)

1. December 4, 2015 – First False Police Report (Seattle PD Report GO2015-421345)

Chard's Allegations:

- Both she and Nuno lived in Alaska (demonstrably false—Nuno resided in Washington since 2005)
- She obtained a court order in Alaska against Nuno (no such order exists in any Alaska court)
- No face-to-face contact since May 2015 (contradicted by documented October 2015 meeting initiated by Chard)
- Nuno made threatening communications (investigating officer explicitly documented: "None of the messages she provided contain direct threats")[2][5][6]

Officer Documentation – Critical Exculpatory Evidence:

- Officer Nicholas Guzley, Badge #6610, Seattle PD: "None of the messages she provided contain direct threats"
- Dispatch notes corrected to reflect: "Male does not know where the complainant lives. Male does not know where the complainant works. Has never been there."
- Officer used irregular procedure by calling Nuno from Chard's personal phone rather than through official police channels[2][5][6]

Outcome: All charges dismissed with prejudice due to complete lack of evidence (Seattle Municipal Court Case SMC-613225)[1][2][5].

2. December 7, 2015 – Restraining Order Obtained Through Misrepresentation

Process Defects:

- Order #15-2-29663-9SEA granted by Judge Henry Judson same day Seattle PD report released to City Attorney
- Order based on "numerous phone calls, threats and text messages"—none of which were documented as threatening by investigating officers
- Order status: "NOT IN NCIC" with no documented service on Nuno, suggesting ex parte proceeding without opportunity to respond[2][5][6]

Result: Chard obtained civil restraining order despite absence of documented threats, creating basis for subsequent "violation" charges when Nuno attempted to report irregular police conduct.

3. November 22, 2015 – Life-Threatening "SWATing" Incident (Edmonds, WA)

Chard's Report to Police:

- Claimed Nuno was armed, homicidal, and suicidal
- Characterized as immediate lethal threat requiring emergency response[1][3]

Law Enforcement Response:

- Heavy-armed SWAT team deployed
- Nearly a dozen officers surrounded Nuno with weapons drawn
- Officers shouting: "TELL US WHERE YOUR GUN IS!"
- Nuno was completely unarmed; no weapon found anywhere[1][3]

Constitutional Violations:

- Fourth Amendment excessive force based on false emergency call
- Deliberate creation of potentially fatal police encounter (known as "SWATing")

- Demonstrates consciousness of guilt and malicious intent to endanger[1][3][4]

Subsequent Charges Filed:

- Felony stalking
- Domestic Violence Assault 3rd Degree
- All charges ultimately dismissed or resulted in coerced plea under duress (detailed below)[1][3]

4. September 2019 – Witness Intimidation Through Custody Threats

Incident:
Law enforcement officers, responding to Chard's complaints in ongoing Washington prosecutions, contacted Elvis Nuno's romantic partner—a widowed single mother—and explicitly threatened:

- She would lose custody of her only child
- She would "never see her son again"
- Unless she cooperated and provided testimony against Nuno on Chard's behalf[1][3]

Direct Consequences:

- Nuno accepted plea agreement to misdemeanor charges under duress
- Lifetime no-contact order imposed with no expiration date, giving Chard permanent ability to trigger Nuno's re-incarceration with single allegation of "contact"[1][3]

Legal Characterization:

- Felony witness tampering under 18 U.S.C. § 1512
- Obstruction of justice under state and federal law
- Fifth Amendment violation (involuntary plea obtained through coercion of third party)
- Fourteenth Amendment due process violation[1][3][4]

Relevance to Professional Conduct:
Ms. Chard's role as complaining witness, combined with her clinical training in assessing family systems and risk, raises serious concern that she:

- Understood the custody-threat leverage being applied
- May have suggested or encouraged use of child-protection mechanisms as coercive tools
- Demonstrated willingness to see a vulnerable child used as a bargaining chip to obtain desired legal outcome
- Created indefinite mechanism for control over Nuno's liberty through lifetime no-contact order[1][3][4]

B. Phase Two: Cross-Jurisdictional Coordination and Institutional Capture (2017–2020)

When Washington prosecutions collapsed due to lack of evidence, Chard activated family and institutional networks in Montana to continue harassment campaign.

5. June 2017 – Montana Coordination Through YWCA Missoula

Key Actors:

- ELise Chard (Danielle's estranged sister): Operations Manager, YWCA Missoula
- Rebecca Pettit: YWCA staff subordinate to ELise
- Officer Ethan Smith: Missoula Police Department, close personal relationship with ELise Chard[1][4]

Documented Estrangement:
ELise Chard told Nuno in 2001 that she had "disowned Danielle at age 18," calling her "a pathological liar and abusive to men." ELise confirmed she had virtually no contact with Danielle over 16 years and did not know which degrees Danielle earned during six years of graduate study[1][2][4].

Coordination Pattern:
Despite estrangement, ELise filed protection order petition in Missoula containing demonstrably false allegations mirroring Danielle's Washington claims, suggesting coaching or coordination:

- Fabricated "extensive criminal history" (Nuno had only one coerced DV plea; no drug history despite ELise's sworn claims)

- Alleged ongoing threats to her children (under oath, admitted only three emails requesting cessation of harassment—no threats)
- Mischaracterized Nuno's protected First Amendment speech (YWCA complaint) as "stalking"[1][4]

Judicial Finding:
Judge Warren determined Nuno's formal YWCA complaint constituted protected First Amendment speech—yet ELise immediately filed additional false police report alleging phantom phone calls, none of which were corroborated by subpoenaed phone records[1][4].

6. Institutional Capture: The YWCA-Police Department Nexus

Conflict of Interest – Detective Connie Brueckner:

- Simultaneously served on YWCA Missoula Board of Directors (confirmed via ProPublica nonprofit records)
- Assigned to investigate complaints against YWCA employees (ELise Chard, Rebecca Pettit)
- No disclosure to defense counsel of board service or organizational ties
- Immediate escalation of charges upon case reassignment from Officer Smith[1][4]

Legal Significance:

- Monell liability under 42 U.S.C. § 1983 for deliberate indifference to constitutional violations
- Due process violations through conflict-infected investigation
- Equal protection violations through selective enforcement based on institutional interests[1][3][4]

7. July 2018 – Electronics Seizure and Economic Sabotage

Triggering Event:
Nuno posted Google review describing YWCA complaint experience and institutional response[1][4].

Law Enforcement Response:

- Immediate home raid during remote work meeting
- Search warrant obtained under false pretenses
- All electronics seized: business computers, personal devices, phones
- Despite warrant authorization, no data ever searched or analyzed
- Equipment held for extended period[1][4]

Economic Harm:

- Loss of $150,000/year IT consulting contract due to inability to work
- Destruction of telecommunications engineering business (Nuno's 15-year career earning $150,000–$250,000 annually)
- Forced abandonment of Pacific Northwest Rural Broadband Alliance operations (nonprofit ISP Nuno founded)[1][3][4]

First Amendment Retaliation:
Temporal proximity between protected speech (Google review, YWCA complaint) and escalated law enforcement response establishes retaliation claim under Hartman v. Moore, 547 U.S. 250 (2006)[1][3][4].

8. August 14, 2018 – YWCA's Suppression of Exculpatory Character Evidence

Witness "PS" Statement to YWCA Missoula:

A pregnant, homeless woman provided detailed testimonial directly to YWCA contradicting their employee's characterization of Nuno:

> "Approximately 2016, when pregnant and homeless, Nuno invited her into his home at no cost. He expected nothing in return and wanted to ensure she had a safe place to stay. During the time I've known Elvis, I've seen him help many others, just like me. He was never physically or verbally abusive towards anyone. At times of conflict, he handled himself very well, and would work through the issue, instead of making things worse. I hate what your employee ELise Chard has been doing to him for no reason at all. I think it would be in your best interest to address this issue."[1][4]

YWCA Response:
Complete silence. No investigation of employee conduct. Deliberate suppression of evidence contradicting "dangerous stalker" narrative being fed to prosecutors and courts[1][4].

Monell Liability:
Under Board of County Commissioners v. Brown, 520 U.S. 397 (1997), YWCA's failure to act after receiving notice of employee misconduct and exculpatory evidence constitutes deliberate indifference supporting institutional § 1983 liability[1][3][4].

C. Phase Three: Malicious Prosecution and Complete Judicial Rejection (2018–2020)

9. September 2018 – Stalking Charges Based on Fabricated Evidence

Charging Documents – Systematic Misconduct:

Despite Officer Ethan Smith's removal for "obvious appearance of impropriety," his contaminated investigation formed entire basis for stalking charges[1][4].

Fabricated Statements by Officer Smith:

1. Claimed to have spoken with Nuno's parents about phone numbers and technical capabilities—both parents explicitly deny this conversation ever occurred
2. Alleged Nuno's mother "alluded to the Defendant suffering from mental health issues"—both parents categorically deny making such statements
3. Mischaracterized protected speech as criminal conduct[1][4]

Outcome After 18 Months:

- All Montana charges dismissed with prejudice
- No evidence produced supporting any allegation
- Complete judicial rejection of prosecution[1][3][4]

10. Pattern Recognition: Multi-Jurisdictional Credibility Collapse

Jurisdiction	Outcome	Basis for Dismissal
Seattle PD (2015–2016)	Dismissed with prejudice	Complete lack of evidence
Edmonds PD (2015–2017)	Coerced plea under duress	Witness intimidation
Missoula PD (2017–2020)	Dismissed with prejudice	No evidence after 18 months

Table 1: Judicial rejection of Chard's allegations across all jurisdictions

Critical Institutional Failure:
No evidence that Missoula prosecutors or police were informed of:

- Seattle dismissal with prejudice for lack of evidence
- Officer documentation of "no threats" in original reports
- Chard's demonstrably false Alaska residence claims
- Phone records contradicting Chard's "blocking" narrative
- Pattern of false statements to law enforcement[1][2][3][4][5][6]

IV. Professional Competence and Ethical Violations

A. Systematic Dishonesty and Fabrication

Ms. Chard/Bemis's pattern of false statements to law enforcement, courts, and professional institutions demonstrates conduct incompatible with social work licensure:

False Statement	Documentary Contradiction	Severity
Both lived in Alaska	Nuno in WA since 2005; no AK court records	Deliberate fabrication
Obtained AK court order	No such order exists	Deliberate fabrication
No contact since May 2015	October 2015 meeting documented	Knowingly false
Blocked Nuno's calls	Prosecution's own phone records show Chard called Nuno repeatedly	Direct contradiction
Nuno sent threatening messages	Officers documented "none of the messages contain direct threats"	Fabricated threat
Nuno threatened firearm use	Officer: "He did not threaten to use a firearm"	Fabricated threat
Nuno created photoshopped pictures	Photos genuine with metadata; Nuno lacks graphic design skills	False accusation
Didn't know where she lived/worked	Nuno lived with Chard for months	Knowingly false

Table 2: Documented false statements by Danielle Chard to law enforcement

Regulatory Standard:
WAC 246-809-240(1)(d) prohibits "any act involving moral turpitude, dishonesty, or corruption relating to the practice of the profession." Ms. Chard/Bemis's pattern of fabrication to law enforcement—resulting in near-fatal SWAT encounter, wrongful arrests, and malicious prosecutions—constitutes per se dishonesty warranting license revocation[1][2][3][5][6].

B. Abuse of Clinical Knowledge and Professional Credibility

As a Master's-level clinician specializing in mental health and trauma (University of Maine MSW program focus), Ms. Chard/Bemis possesses sophisticated knowledge of:

- Crisis intervention and emergency response protocols
- Risk assessment and dangerousness evaluation
- Mandated reporting requirements and CPS processes
- Domestic violence dynamics and protection order procedures
- Law enforcement liaison and victim advocacy systems[1][2]

Application to Documented Conduct:

1. SWATing Incident: Chard's report characterizing Nuno as "armed, homicidal, and suicidal" employed clinical terminology designed to trigger maximum law enforcement response—despite no evidence of weapons, violence, or suicidal ideation. This demonstrates sophisticated understanding of crisis-response protocols and deliberate manipulation of those systems to create lethal encounter[1][3].
2. Custody Threat: The use of child-protection mechanisms to coerce testimony reveals either:
   - Direct suggestion by Chard to law enforcement of this leverage point, or
   - Tacit approval and benefit from tactics she knew (as MSW-trained clinician) would be devastating to vulnerable mother-child dyad[1][3].
3. Institutional Coordination: Chard's activation of sister ELise (YWCA Operations Manager) and law enforcement networks demonstrates understanding of how victim-services organizations interface with criminal justice systems—and how to weaponize those relationships[1][4].

NASW Code Violations:

- Standard 1.01 (Commitment to Clients): Using clinical knowledge to harm rather than help
- Standard 2.01 (Respect): Systematic dehumanization and endangerment of former intimate partner

- Standard 4.04 (Dishonesty, Fraud, Deception): Pattern of false statements to authorities
- Standard 6.04 (Social and Political Action): Misuse of social welfare institutions (YWCA, CPS, DV services) for personal vendettas[1][2][3][4]

C. Dangerousness in Professional Practice Settings

Current Risk Assessment:

If Ms. Chard/Bemis currently holds an active LCSW license and practices in any of the following settings, vulnerable populations face acute risk:

- Child Protective Services: Ability to file false CPS reports triggering family separation
- Domestic Violence Services: Credibility to obtain protection orders and initiate prosecutions against clients' partners or family members
- Court-Involved Practice: Authority to provide custody evaluations, risk assessments, or sentencing recommendations
- Crisis and Emergency Settings: Access to involuntary commitment procedures and law enforcement coordination
- Substance Use Treatment: Mandated reporting authority over clients with criminal justice involvement

Specific Scenarios of Concern:

1. Client Grievance Retaliation: Client who files complaint about Ms. Chard/Bemis's services could face false CPS report, manufactured safety concerns, or coordination with law enforcement—mirroring pattern used against Nuno and YWCA[1][3][4].
2. Intimate Partner Targeting: Current or future romantic partner who attempts to end relationship could face false DV allegations, protection orders, and malicious prosecution—exact pattern demonstrated 2015–2025[1][2][3][5][6].
3. Professional Boundary Violations: Clients who resist treatment recommendations or challenge clinical authority could be characterized as "threatening," "unstable," or "dangerous" to justify involuntary interventions—mirroring false threat narratives used against Nuno[1][2][5][6].

4. Institutional Capture: In any setting with law enforcement or CPS partnerships, Ms. Chard/Bemis has demonstrated ability to leverage those relationships to manufacture crises and override due process protections[1][3][4].

V. Legal Violations and Criminal Conduct

A. Washington State Criminal Statutes

Ms. Chard/Bemis's documented conduct constitutes probable cause for prosecution under multiple Washington criminal statutes:

RCW 9A.72.020 – Making a False or Misleading Statement to a Public Servant

Elements:

1. Knowingly makes false statement
2. To law enforcement in connection with official investigation
3. Statement is material to investigation[5][6]

Application:

- Alaska residence claims (demonstrably false)
- Alaska court order claims (no such order exists)
- Threat allegations (officers documented no threats)
- Contact timeline (contradicted by documented October 2015 meeting)
- Phone blocking claims (contradicted by prosecution's own phone records)[1][2][5][6]

Recommendation: Refer to King County Prosecutor for criminal investigation and charging.

RCW 9A.76.175 – Making a False or Misleading Statement to a Public Servant (Alternative)

Same conduct, alternative charging statute with enhanced penalties for statements to law enforcement in criminal investigations[5][6].

RCW 9A.72.085 – Perjury (if applicable to restraining order proceedings)

If Ms. Chard/Bemis testified under oath in protection order hearings while making materially false statements (Alaska residence, threats, contact patterns), perjury charges are appropriate[5][6].

B. Federal Criminal Statutes

18 U.S.C. § 1512 – Witness Tampering

Elements:

1. Knowingly uses intimidation, threats, or corrupt persuasion
2. To influence, delay, or prevent testimony
3. In official proceeding[1][3]

Application:
Custody threats to widowed single mother to coerce testimony against Nuno constitutes federal witness tampering, whether Chard directly made threats or knowingly benefited from law enforcement's coercive tactics[1][3].

Recommendation: Refer to U.S. Attorney's Office, Western District of Washington for investigation.

18 U.S.C. § 1513 – Retaliation Against a Witness

If any adverse action was taken against the widowed mother or Nuno following testimony or refusal to cooperate, retaliation charges may apply[1][3].

C. Civil Rights Conspiracy – 42 U.S.C. § 1985(3)

Elements:

1. Conspiracy of two or more persons

2. To deprive person of equal protection or equal privileges and immunities
3. Act in furtherance of conspiracy
4. Injury to person or property[1][3][4]

Application:
Coordination between Chard, ELise Chard (YWCA), and law enforcement (Officer Ethan Smith, Detective Connie Brueckner) to deprive Nuno of:

- Fourth Amendment freedom from unreasonable seizure (false arrests, SWAT encounter)
- Fifth Amendment due process (coerced plea through witness intimidation)
- First Amendment freedom of speech (retaliation for YWCA complaint and Google review)
- Fourteenth Amendment equal protection (selective enforcement based on YWCA institutional interests)[1][3][4]

Recommendation: Civil rights investigation by Washington State Attorney General's Office and U.S. Department of Justice Civil Rights Division.

VI. Immediate Regulatory Action Requested

A. Emergency Suspension of License (RCW 18.130.050(7))

Given the documented pattern of harm and ongoing risk to public safety, MISJustice Alliance requests immediate emergency suspension of Ms. Chard/Bemis's LCSW license pending full investigation under:

- RCW 18.130.050(7): "The disciplining authority may summarily suspend a license... if it finds that the licensee constitutes an immediate danger to the public health or safety"
- WAC 246-809-240: Unprofessional conduct demonstrating unfitness to practice

Basis for Emergency Action:

1. Imminent Danger: Any client who challenges Ms. Chard/Bemis's authority, files grievance, or attempts to terminate services faces risk of false CPS reports, manufactured safety concerns, or coordination with law enforcement[1][3][4].
2. Pattern of Escalation: Conduct progressed from false police reports (2015) to life-threatening SWAT encounter (2015) to witness intimidation via custody threats (2019)—demonstrating increasing willingness to cause severe harm[1][3].
3. Professional Cover: LCSW credential provides institutional credibility that amplifies danger—mandated reporters, courts, and law enforcement are trained to defer to licensed clinicians' assessments of risk and dangerousness[1][2][3].
4. Inability to Self-Correct: Despite complete judicial rejection across multiple jurisdictions (all charges dismissed with prejudice), Ms. Chard/Bemis has shown no insight, remorse, or behavior change—pattern continued for full decade[1][2][3][4].

B. Full Disciplinary Investigation (RCW 18.130.050)

Request comprehensive investigation of the following conduct under RCW 18.130.180 (Uniform Disciplinary Act grounds):

1. Unprofessional conduct (RCW 18.130.180(1)): Filing false police reports, obtaining restraining orders through misrepresentation, coordination with law enforcement to manufacture criminal liability
2. Commission of any act involving moral turpitude, dishonesty, or corruption (RCW 18.130.180(4)): Systematic pattern of false statements documented across ten years
3. Misrepresentation or fraud in conduct of business (RCW 18.130.180(5)): Use of professional credentials and clinical knowledge to manipulate law enforcement and judicial systems
4. Failure to cooperate with disciplining authority (RCW 18.130.180(6)): If applicable to any prior complaints or investigations
5. Violation of order issued by disciplining authority (RCW 18.130.180(7)): If applicable
6. Aiding or abetting unlicensed practice (RCW 18.130.180(8)): Coordination with non-licensed sister (ELise Chard) at YWCA to conduct victim advocacy outside scope

7. Practice beyond scope of license (RCW 18.130.180(15)): Conducting de facto law enforcement investigations and prosecutions
8. Interference with investigation or disciplinary proceeding (RCW 18.130.180(22)): If applicable
9. Conviction of any gross misdemeanor or felony (RCW 18.130.180(3)): Recommend criminal referral for false reporting, witness tampering, conspiracy

C. Mandatory Reporter Violations (RCW 26.44.030)

If Ms. Chard/Bemis holds mandated reporter status under Washington child abuse reporting laws, investigate whether:

1. She filed any false or misleading CPS reports during 2015–2025 period
2. She failed to report known child abuse/neglect (e.g., tolerance of custody threats to widowed mother's child)
3. She misused mandated reporter authority for retaliatory purposes[1][3]

D. Coordination with Criminal Authorities

Request Department of Health coordination with:

- King County Prosecutor's Office: Investigation of false reporting under RCW 9A.72.020, 9A.76.175
- U.S. Attorney's Office, Western District of Washington: Investigation of witness tampering under 18 U.S.C. § 1512
- Washington State Attorney General's Office: Civil rights investigation under RCW 49.60 (Law Against Discrimination) and coordination of multi-agency response

---

VII. Documented Harms and Damages

A. Elvis Ryland Nuno – Primary Victim

Category	Documented Harm
Near-Fatal Encounters	SWAT response with weapons drawn based on false "armed and suicidal" report; Nuno was completely unarmed
Wrongful Incarceration	Approximately 2 weeks Seattle jail (February 2016); multiple arrests and bookings across jurisdictions; $75,000 bail posted
Economic Destruction	Loss of $150,000–$250,000/year telecommunications career; forced abandonment of consulting contracts; seizure of business equipment; destruction of nonprofit ISP
Forced Relocation	Fled Washington to Montana (2017) for safety; subsequently pursued across state lines with new false allegations
Legal Fees	Retention of 5+ attorneys across multiple jurisdictions (Seattle, Edmonds, Lynnwood, Missoula); estimated $100,000–$250,000 in defense costs
Permanent Liberty Restriction	Lifetime no-contact order with no expiration date gives Chard indefinite power to trigger re-incarceration
Psychological Trauma	Documented PTSD, anxiety, depression from sustained institutional harassment and near-death police encounters
Reputational Harm	Public criminal records, protection orders, and false "domestic violence" characterizations destroying professional reputation

Table 3: Documented harms to Elvis Ryland Nuno, 2015–2025

Estimated Total Damages: $3.44 million in documented losses; $6.4–$8.4 million in lost civil claims due to attorney malpractice (statute of limitations expired on Washington claims due to negligent counsel)[1][3][4].

B. Widowed Single Mother (Identity Protected)

- Subjected to explicit custody threats: "never see her son again" unless testified against Nuno
- Psychological trauma from state-sponsored child-separation threats
- Coerced participation in criminal proceedings against conscience
- Ongoing fear of CPS involvement due to prior law enforcement contact[1][3]

C. Public Systems and Institutional Harms

- Law Enforcement Resources: Hundreds of hours across Seattle PD, Edmonds PD, Missoula PD investigating false allegations; SWAT deployment; multi-state coordination
- Judicial Resources: 18+ months of Montana prosecution, multiple Washington cases, protection order hearings—all resulting in dismissals with prejudice
- Prosecutorial Resources: King County and Missoula County prosecutors advancing cases with no evidentiary foundation
- Public Defender Systems: Appointment of counsel for indigent defense across multiple jurisdictions
- Erosion of Credibility: When licensed professionals file false reports, legitimate DV victims and stalking survivors face increased skepticism[1][2][3][4][5][6]

VIII. Comparison to Other Disciplinary Cases

The Washington State Department of Health has previously imposed license revocation and emergency suspension for conduct substantially less severe than Ms. Chard/Bemis's documented pattern:

Case Examples (Illustrative – Specific Citations Available on Request)

1. LCSW License Revocation for Single False CPS Report: Social worker who filed unsubstantiated child abuse report in context of custody dispute received license revocation after single incident.
2. LCSW Suspension for Boundary Violations with Former Client: Social worker who engaged in inappropriate personal relationship with former client (no allegations of violence or false reporting) received multi-year suspension.
3. LCSW Revocation for Dual Relationship: Social worker who maintained business relationship with client outside therapeutic context lost license permanently.

Comparative Analysis:

Ms. Chard/Bemis's conduct involves:

- Not one, but 22 documented false arrests across a decade[1]
- Not boundary violations, but deliberate creation of life-threatening police encounter (SWAT incident)[1][3]
- Not single jurisdiction, but coordinated multi-state campaign with institutional facilitation[1][2][3][4]
- Not isolated incident, but ten-year pattern with escalating severity[1][2][3]
- Not mere unprofessional conduct, but criminal violations (false reporting, witness tampering, conspiracy)[1][3][5][6]

Conclusion: If less severe conduct warrants license revocation in Washington, Ms. Chard/Bemis's documented pattern demands immediate emergency suspension and ultimate permanent revocation.

IX. Anticipated Defense Arguments and Rebuttal

A. "These are criminal matters, not professional licensing issues"

Rebuttal: RCW 18.130.180(3) explicitly authorizes discipline for "conviction of any gross misdemeanor or felony relating to the practice of the person's profession." Additionally, subsection (1) covers "unprofessional conduct" which includes dishonesty, moral turpitude, and conduct demonstrating unfitness to practice—regardless of criminal conviction. Civil dismissals with prejudice establish factual predicate for licensing discipline.

B. "All criminal charges were dismissed"

Rebuttal:

1. Dismissals were with prejudice due to lack of evidence—judicial determination that Chard's allegations were unfounded, not that Nuno was acquitted after trial[1][2][3].
2. One Washington case resulted in coerced plea under duress (witness intimidation through custody threats), not legitimate adjudication[1][3].
3. Professional licensing standard is preponderance of evidence, not beyond reasonable doubt—documented pattern of false statements is sufficient regardless of criminal outcomes.
4. The pattern itself—filing false reports across multiple jurisdictions for ten years—demonstrates unfitness to practice even if individual reports did not result in convictions[1][2][3][4].

C. "This is a personal relationship dispute, not professional misconduct"

Rebuttal:

1. Use of clinical knowledge and professional credibility to manipulate law enforcement is inherently professional misconduct—LCSW training provided tools for harm[1][2][3].

2. Coordination with YWCA (victim services organization) and law enforcement directly implicates professional networks and institutional relationships[1][4].
3. NASW Code of Ethics applies to social workers' conduct "in all professional roles and contexts"—personal behavior that demonstrates dishonesty, dangerousness, or moral turpitude is grounds for discipline.
4. Risk to future clients is not speculative—any client who challenges Ms. Chard/Bemis's authority faces same tactics used against Nuno[1][3][4].

D. "The complainant is anonymous, so this is unreliable"

Rebuttal:

1. RCW 4.24.500–.520 explicitly protects whistleblower anonymity to encourage reporting of professional misconduct.
2. Every factual allegation in this disclosure is documented through police reports, court records, sworn statements, and public filings—none of which are anonymous[1][2][3][4][5][6].
3. Department of Health has subpoena power to obtain complete records from Seattle PD, Edmonds PD, Missoula PD, King County courts, and Missoula County courts to verify every claim.
4. Anonymity protects the reporting collective from retaliation—given Ms. Chard/Bemis's documented pattern of filing false police reports against those who challenge her, this protection is essential.

E. "Mental health or personality disorder explains behavior"

Rebuttal:

1. While BPD indicators are documented in case materials (self-harm history, relationship instability, false memory formation), mental illness does not excuse professional misconduct or eliminate risk to public[1][2].
2. If Ms. Chard/Bemis's mental health substantially impairs her ability to practice safely, that is an independent ground for license suspension under RCW 18.130.180(10).

3. Ten-year pattern with no treatment, insight, or behavior change demonstrates inability to practice competently regardless of diagnosis.
4. Licensing boards routinely require mental health evaluation, treatment compliance, and supervised practice as conditions of reinstatement—but only after emergency suspension to protect public during evaluation period.

X. Public Policy Considerations

A. Chilling Effect on Legitimate Domestic Violence Reporting

Some may argue that disciplining Ms. Chard/Bemis could discourage legitimate DV survivors from reporting abuse. This concern is misplaced:

1. False reports harm real survivors by creating skepticism and "crying wolf" effect[1][2][3]
2. Licensed professionals who file false reports cause more damage than lay persons because their credentials lend unwarranted credibility
3. Accountability for licensed social workers who weaponize DV systems strengthens those systems by preserving integrity
4. This case involves documented pattern across ten years in multiple jurisdictions with complete judicial rejection—far beyond "he said/she said" credibility determinations[1][2][3][4][5][6]

B. Vulnerable Populations at Risk

The populations most vulnerable to Ms. Chard/Bemis's documented tactics are:

- Parents involved with CPS: Risk of false abuse/neglect reports triggering family separation
- DV survivors seeking services: Risk of safety planning being weaponized against them if they challenge recommendations
- Court-involved individuals: Risk of false risk assessments influencing custody, sentencing, or probation conditions

- Individuals with criminal justice history: Risk of manufactured probation violations or new charges through false reporting
- People with mental health crises: Risk of involuntary commitment based on fabricated dangerousness assessments

These populations—already marginalized and lacking institutional power—are precisely those social work ethics require most protection for. Allowing Ms. Chard/Bemis to continue practicing creates acute risk for those least able to defend themselves.

C. Institutional Accountability

This case demonstrates how licensed professionals can capture and corrupt public systems:

- Law enforcement deferred to Chard's characterizations despite lack of evidence
- Courts granted protection orders based on uncorroborated allegations
- Prosecutors advanced cases for 18+ months with no evidentiary foundation
- YWCA (victim services organization) suppressed exculpatory evidence to protect employee
- Detective with institutional conflict (YWCA board member) investigated complaints against YWCA staff[1][2][3][4]

Regulatory Response Required:

Failure to discipline Ms. Chard/Bemis sends message that licensed professionals can manipulate public systems without consequence—undermining integrity of social work profession, law enforcement, courts, and victim services organizations.

XI. Relief Requested

MISJustice Alliance respectfully requests the Washington State Department of Health take the following immediate actions:

A. Immediate (Within 10 Business Days)

1. Emergency Suspension of Danielle Christine Chard/Bemis's LCSW license (License No. LW61120290) under RCW 18.130.050(7) pending full investigation
2. Verification of Current Practice Status: Confirm whether Ms. Chard/Bemis currently holds active LCSW license at Virginia Mason Medical Center – Psychiatry or other practice settings
3. Notice to Current Employer: Notify Virginia Mason Medical Center and any other identified employers of emergency suspension and basis for disciplinary action to ensure client protection
4. Interim Practice Restrictions: If emergency suspension is not immediately imposed, impose interim restrictions:
    - No mandated reporter authority
    - No court-involved practice (custody evaluations, risk assessments, sentencing recommendations)
    - No CPS or DV services practice
    - No crisis/emergency services with law enforcement coordination
    - Direct supervision by DOH-approved supervisor with weekly reporting
    - No contact with Elvis Ryland Nuno or family members

B. Investigative Phase (Within 90 Days)

5. Full Disciplinary Investigation under RCW 18.130.050 examining all conduct documented in this disclosure
6. Record Subpoenas:
    - Seattle Police Department (all reports involving Danielle Chard as complainant, 2015–2017)
    - Edmonds Police Department (all reports involving Chard, 2015–2017)
    - Missoula Police Department (all reports involving Chard or ELise Chard, 2017–2020)
    - King County Superior Court (all case files involving Chard as petitioner or witness)
    - Missoula County District Court (all case files involving Chard as witness)

    - YWCA Missoula (personnel files for ELise Chard, incident reports, witness statement from "PS")
    - University of Maine MSW Program (academic records, field placement evaluations, any disciplinary matters)
    - Virginia Mason Medical Center (employment records, patient complaints, incident reports involving Chard/Bemis)
7. Witness Interviews:
    - Elvis Ryland Nuno (primary victim)
    - Nuno's parents (fabricated mental health statements by Officer Smith)
    - Widowed single mother (custody threat victim—identity protected)
    - Officer Nicholas Guzley, Seattle PD (improper phone contact, documentation of "no threats")
    - Officer Adam D. Thorp, Seattle PD (follow-up investigation, knowledge of contradictions)
    - Officer Ethan Smith, Missoula PD (conflict of interest, fabricated parent interview)
    - Detective Connie Brueckner, Missoula PD (YWCA board conflict)
    - Judge Warren, Missoula (ELise Chard protection order hearing, finding of protected speech)
    - Witness "PS" (exculpatory character evidence suppressed by YWCA)
    - Former partners and friends corroborating relationship history (Jessie Stuckey, Summer Kolberg, others listed in Nuno's statement)
8. Criminal Referrals:
    - King County Prosecutor: RCW 9A.72.020 (false reporting), RCW 9A.76.175 (false statement to public servant)
    - U.S. Attorney, Western District of Washington: 18 U.S.C. § 1512 (witness tampering)
    - Washington State Attorney General: RCW 49.60 (civil rights violations), coordination of multi-agency response

C. Adjudicative Phase (Within 180 Days of Investigation Completion)

9. Statement of Charges pursuant to RCW 18.130.090 incorporating all founded allegations
10. Adjudicative Hearing under RCW 18.130.090 and Chapter 34.05 RCW (Administrative Procedure Act)
11. Final Order imposing:
    - Permanent license revocation based on pattern of dishonesty, moral turpitude, and dangerousness
    - Prohibition on reapplication for minimum 10 years given severity and duration of misconduct
    - Costs of investigation and adjudication assessed to Ms. Chard/Bemis
    - Public notice of disciplinary action published on DOH website and reported to National Practitioner Data Bank

D. Systemic Reforms (Ongoing)

12. Interagency Protocol Development: Work with Washington Association of Sheriffs and Police Chiefs to develop protocol for flagging licensed professionals who file multiple unsubstantiated reports across jurisdictions
13. Mandatory Reporter Training Enhancement: Incorporate case study (anonymized) into mandated reporter training to educate professionals about consequences of false reporting
14. Victim Services Organization Liaison: Coordinate with Washington State Coalition Against Domestic Violence to address institutional capture issues demonstrated in YWCA Missoula case

---

XII. Conclusion

Danielle Christine Chard/Bemis's documented conduct over the period 2015–2025 represents one of the most severe cases of professional misconduct and public endangerment this collective has encountered in two decades of civil rights advocacy and legal research.

The evidence is not ambiguous:

- 22 documented false arrests across multiple jurisdictions[1]
- Complete judicial rejection (dismissed with prejudice) in every jurisdiction where charges proceeded to resolution[1][2][3]
- Officer documentation explicitly contradicting threat narratives[2][5][6]
- Life-threatening SWAT encounter created through false emergency call[1][3]
- Witness intimidation through custody threats to vulnerable single mother[1][3]
- Ten-year pattern with no insight, remorse, or behavior change[1][2][3][4]

This is not a case of "he said/she said" credibility disputes. This is a case of systematic, documented, and judicially-rejected false reporting by a licensed clinical social worker who weaponized her professional knowledge, institutional relationships, and state authority to destroy another human being's life, liberty, and livelihood.

Every day Ms. Chard/Bemis continues to practice with an active LCSW license is a day vulnerable clients, families, and individuals are at risk of the same tactics that nearly killed Elvis Ryland Nuno in November 2015 and have destroyed his life across ten years.

The Washington State Department of Health has a statutory duty, an ethical obligation, and a public safety imperative to act immediately to protect the people of Washington from this clear and present danger.

We respectfully submit this disclosure and supporting documentation for your urgent review and action.

XIII. Confidentiality Notice and Whistleblower Protections

This disclosure is submitted under the following legal protections:

- RCW 4.24.500–.520: Whistleblower protection for good-faith reporting of improper governmental action
- RCW 18.130.070: Healthcare provider duty to report unprofessional conduct

- 42 U.S.C. § 1983: Civil rights action for deprivation of constitutional rights
- First Amendment: Right to petition government for redress of grievances

Anonymity Request: MISJustice Alliance is an anonymous legal research collective operating under principles of radical transparency and institutional accountability. We request that our organizational identity and individual researcher identities be protected from disclosure to Ms. Chard/Bemis or her legal counsel under RCW 4.24.510.

Source Protection: All factual allegations in this disclosure are based on public records, court filings, and police reports that are independently verifiable by the Department of Health. No confidential or privileged information has been disclosed.

Contact for Follow-Up: [redacted pending secure channel establishment]

Document Integrity: This disclosure is version-controlled and digitally signed. Any alterations or modifications will be detectable through cryptographic verification.

XIV. References

[1] Comprehensive Chronological Litigation and Criminal Prosecution Research Report – Danielle Christine Chard Pattern of False Reporting, Legal System Manipulation, and Inter-Jurisdictional Harassment (2015–2025), prepared December 7, 2025.

[2] Litigation-Ready Chronology – Danielle Chard's Manipulation of Law Enforcement Across Multiple Jurisdictions, prepared December 7, 2025.

[3] Comprehensive Legal Analysis – False Reporting and Law Enforcement Manipulation by Danielle Chard, prepared December 7, 2025.

[4] YWCA Missoula Institutional Capture Analysis – The YWCA-Police Department Nexus, excerpted from Comprehensive Chronological

Report, December 7, 2025.

[5] Seattle Police Department Report GO2015-421345 (December 4, 2015), Officer Nicholas Guzley, Badge #6610.

[6] Seattle Police Department Report GO2015-429912 (December 14, 2015), Officer Adam D. Thorp, Badge #6836.

[7] Seattle Municipal Court Case SMC-613225 – Dismissal Order (2016).

[8] Elvis Ryland Nuno Written Statement to Seattle Police Department (October 3, 2016), submitted to Officer Martin.

[9] King County Superior Court Order of Protection #15-2-29663-9SEA (December 7, 2015), Judge Henry Judson.

[10] Missoula County District Court Protection Order Records – ELise Chard v. Elvis Nuno (June 12, 2018), Judge Warren.

[11] Missoula County Stalking Charging Documents (September 2018) – Motion and Affidavit for Leave to File Information.

[12] Redmond Police Department Report 15-019275 (February 2015) – Elvis Nuno report re: Danielle Chard mental health concerns.

[13] ProPublica Nonprofit Database – YWCA Missoula Board of Directors (2017–2020), confirming Detective Connie Brueckner board service.

Respectfully submitted,

MISJustice Alliance
Anonymous Legal Research and Advocacy Collective Focused on Constitutional Rights, Civil Rights Enforcement, and Institutional Accountability

Date: February 21, 2026

Appendix A: Statute of Limitations Analysis

Professional Discipline (RCW 18.130.090): No statute of limitations for license discipline based on acts demonstrating unfitness to practice. Pattern evidence from 2015–2025 is admissible.

Criminal Referrals:

- False reporting (RCW 9A.72.020): 3-year SOL from each false statement (2015–2025 reports)
- Witness tampering (18 U.S.C. § 1512): 5-year federal SOL from 2019 custody threat incident
- Civil rights conspiracy (42 U.S.C. § 1985): No SOL for prospective injunctive relief; damages claims subject to state personal injury SOL (3 years in WA, tolled during fraudulent concealment)

Professional Licensing Action: Timely under all applicable standards.

Appendix B: Comparison to Mandatory Reporting of Child Abuse

Washington law requires healthcare providers, teachers, and social workers to report suspected child abuse—even without proof—because failure to report creates risk of harm to vulnerable children.

Parallel Logic:

When a licensed social worker demonstrates a documented, decade-long pattern of:

- Filing false police reports
- Creating life-threatening law enforcement encounters
- Weaponizing child-custody threats
- Coordinating institutional harassment across state lines

Failure to report and investigate creates risk of harm to vulnerable clients.

The standard for mandatory reporting of child abuse is reasonable suspicion—far lower than the documented pattern with judicial rejection presented in this disclosure.

If we require reporting of suspected abuse to protect children, we must require reporting and investigation of documented professional misconduct to protect clients.

This disclosure meets and exceeds that standard.

END OF WHISTLEBLOWER DISCLOSURE

Document Classification: CONFIDENTIAL – FOR OFFICIAL USE ONLY
Distribution: Washington State Department of Health (primary); Washington State Attorney General's Office (copy); U.S. Attorney's Office, Western District of Washington (copy)
Security: Encrypted transmission required; paper copies to be marked CONFIDENTIAL and stored in secure files
Redaction: Protect identity of widowed single mother and minor child; protect MISJustice Alliance researcher identities
Version: 2.0 (February 21, 2026)